Express Company To Charge Storage

Disputes Between Shipper and Consignee Sometimes Result in Company Being Compelled to Hold Express Matter a Long Time.

Agent L. G. Kimball of the American Railway Express Company announced today that the express companies plan to establish a system of charges for the storing of express shipments refused when tendered for delivery or uncalled for.

A docket outlining the proposal has been issued for the information of the public, and in due course it will be filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission as an addition to the express classification to become effective on or about May 1.

The rules and charges will apply to business of this character which the local office has to store owing to the refusal of the consignee to accept it when a tender of delivery is made or which for any other reason cannot be delivered. Three days "free time" will be allowed after which the storage charge will be 10 cents for the first day, five cents for each of the next eight days with a maximum of 50 cents a month for each shipment weighing 100 pounds or less. There will be a regular monthly charge thereafter of 50 cents per month or fraction thereof.

On shipments weighing more than 100 pounds this storage charge will be assessed proportionally, any fractional part of 100 pounds to be computed as 100 pounds, i.e., on shipments weighing more than 100 pounds and not more than 200 pounds the storage charge will be twice that shown on a 100 pounds shipment. The carrier is required to give proper arrival notice to the consignee, such notice to bear the same address as appears on the shipment and to retain in its files a duplicate copy of such notice.

In the course of business, many controversies arise, during which a consignee may prefer to refuse shipments sent to him. The carrier has no alternative but to store the goods and cannot relieve itself of the shipment or of all responsibility for it until the parties involved adjust their differences. This may take several months in which the carrier is an innocent bystander having been in no wise responsible for non-delivery. The express companies have not heretofore made it a practice to assess storage charges on unclaimed shipments although it has long been a practice with freight and baggage. They contend that the expense and extra labor involved should be borne not by the express patrons generally, but by the owners of the goods so stored.

No Drinking In the Service

Says General Butler, Whether This Country Has Prohibition or Not—Approves Wet Dry Polls in Newspapers.

Los Angeles, March 11.—"You can't drink in the service," those were the words uttered by Brigadier General Smedley D. Butler, formerly director of public safety in Philadelphia, who a few days ago became commandant of the U. S. Marine Base at San Diego.

And those words may become the slogan of a campaign to "clean up" Pacific Coast ports, where marines are said to obtain liquor easily and find the lure of various forms of vice.

Refusing to comment directly on charges of intoxication made against Colonel Alexander Williams, who he succeeded at San Diego, General Butler said:

"It is a rule of the navy that no man gets drunk. It doesn't make a bit of difference whether this country has prohibition or not, navy rule and navy traditions say men shall not drink and it has always been so."

"Have your recent experiences in civil life in Philadelphia changed your mind about men and officers drinking in the service?" he was asked.

"Not a bit of it," he shouted. "What I learned about vice conditions in Philadelphia, has not changed my ideas at all. Drinking in the navy is not done, that's all. Everyone knows it, everyone understands it and it's something that simply can't be tolerated."

"Do you approve of the wet and dry polls in newspapers?" he was asked.

"Yes. The prohibition polls can do no harm. We have straw votes on other vital questions and I see no good reason why the wet and dry polls should cause objection."

The man who "cleaned" Philadelphia admitted he did not know whether crime is increasing or decreasing in America.

"In Philadelphia, I have found that only one thing can stop crime," he said, "that is the stamping out of vice. After we cleaned up gambling dens and other holes in Philadelphia crime stopped."

"Ordering policemen to shoot to kill," stops holdups.

"Philadelphia, holdups dropped more than 70 per cent after that order went out and there were no deaths among policemen."

General Butler said he had no plans to again desert the marines to "clean up" Los Angeles, as he was urged to do by many citizens today.

He denied that the preferring of charges against Colonel Williams was intended as "the opening gun in a clean up" of the marines.

Services of Chamber to Be Offered to New Residents and Three Months' Chamber Membership to Be Given New Business Firms—Plans to Advertise City.

The regular monthly meeting of the board of directors of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce was held on Monday, March 8. The board meets on the second Monday of each month and would welcome suggestions from the members or non-members as to activities that could be taken up. If such suggestions are mailed to the Chamber of Commerce they will receive consideration by the board.

The facilities of the Chamber of Commerce office were offered to the board of directors of the Kingston City Hospital in their contemplated drive.

A letter was sent to the Albany Chamber of Commerce expressing the sympathy of the Kingston Chamber on account of the death of Mayor Hackett, who at one time was the president of the Albany Chamber.

It has been planned to extend to each family coming to Kingston as a new resident a welcome by means of a letter offering the services of the Chamber in making them familiar with the advantages of Kingston. At the same time it was voted that each new firm opening a place of business here a card of membership would be issued, good for three months, entitling the firm to all of the services rendered by the Chamber excepting voting power.

President Max L. Reben was instructed to appoint a committee to investigate what is being accomplished in cities that have adopted a Community Chest and to advise regarding an endeavor to establish one in Kingston.

With the opening of The Governor Clinton Hotel, Kingston more than ever will become a touring center. Having this in mind the publicity bureau of the Chamber, N. B. Gross, 1000 edition of the Kingston Tourist map, all rail, water, auto bus and trolley information for the traveling public. The book will carry many illustrations of the points of interest in and about Kingston with brief descriptions of same and will be compiled as to be of credit to the city.

The expense of this booklet will be borne by those who receive direct benefit from the touring public.

It was voted to advertise Kingston still further by taking a half page advertisement in the Historic Hudson, a finely compiled publication issued once a year and which has a circulation of 10,000. In addition to the advertisement there will be a well written article on Kingston which will be illustrated with fine cuts.

Girl Tells of Being Mistreated

Irene Saari Says She Was Imprisoned and Abused by Four Men—Attempted Carcasses Recall Her Days of Terror.

Chicago, March 11.—Attempted carcasses on the part of her escort recalled so vividly a harrowing experience at the hands of four men in a fashionable hotel apartment a week ago that a pretty young woman became violently hysterical and ran amuck in a road house near Tessville, Ill., early today and started police and state authorities on an investigation of her weird story of imprisonment and abuse over a period of four days.

The girl, Miss Irene Saari, 19 and pretty, is in a hospital at Evanston, where physicians said her body and legs were in frightful condition as the result of what appears to have been a recent beating and other mistreatment. She is a saleswoman in a big downtown store.

John W. Hill, vice-president of a large real estate firm, and J. Arthur Dundas, one of his business associates, are in technical custody, two other employees of the firm and two ex-army officers are sought.

Chief of Police Lynch of Tessville was called to the road house by the proprietor. He said that Miss Saari, in a highly hysterical condition was perched upon the bar, kicking at nearby objects and screaming at "keep the men away from me."

Taken in the chief's car to a physician's office, she broke away and fled in bare feet but was caught and taken to a hospital.

Miss Saari said that on March 2 she went to a party which Hill was giving at a hotel. Two men were there.

"They locked the door and made me take off my clothes and put on pajamas," the girl continued. "They said if I didn't obey and keep quiet they would throw me from the window."

Then followed three days of terror, according to the girl, during which she was subjected to unprintable abuse. She was bound to a couch with the belts of those two men and others who joined them, she was flogged with the belts and otherwise mistreated. Eventually she became in such a dangerous condition, she said, that she was taken secretly to another hotel, treated by a physician and finally taken to an outlying hospital where she remained several days, afraid to reveal what had happened to her because of the threats of her assailants.

The roadhouse party, she declared, followed her release from the hospital and was not associated with the other. It was arranged by her roommate, who has not been found, in an effort to make her forget her experience. Miss Saari said. But all her escort recalled so vividly what had happened in the hotel that she became hysterical.

Kiwanis Hears About Telephone

Walter S. Henkel, district traffic manager of the New York Telephone Company for this district, was the speaker at the noon day meeting of the Kiwanis Club at the "Y" and gave a very interesting talk on local telephone conditions.

Mr. Henkel called attention to the fact that the Kingston office on an average handles 35,000 phone calls a day, and approximately 500 long distance calls, which number is increased to about 1,400 out of town calls during the vacation season in the summer.

He also told of how the telephone situation was handled during the fire at the Kingston City Hospital. His talk was greatly enjoyed and conveyed much interesting information to his hearers.

Progressive Pheochie. Vanierly Council, No. 41, D. of A. will hold a card party at Mechanic Hall, 14 Henry Street, Tuesday evening, March 16, at 8 o'clock. Prizes and refreshments. The public is cordially invited.

able to say anything and left the store. Next day he told Mr. Craft about the whole matter and he testified that at no time had he been promised anything in relation to not being prosecuted. He made his statement willingly to the district attorney. He claims that when the fraud was exposed he still had $400 on account some $390 from the Samuels under their agreement to split on the "fake" slips.

Cross-examined, Mr. Samuels said that when he said he did not know who the man was whom the first asked to cash the $190 check in the store, he meant that he did not know his last name. When examined by Reference E. E. Oughelive about the last of February of this year he was asked who the man was who was in the store when he received the check for $190 and whom he asked to cash it before Tommy Gruberg cashed it. At that time he said he did not know. On the stand Wednesday he said he knew the man and he was in the court room. He came from Newburgh. When he told the referee that he did not know who the man was he was referring to the man's last name, he only knew his first name at that time.

The case was resumed this morning when the defense continued the case.

Cocktail Warfare Stirs Washington

United States Will Be Without Army, Navy or Marine Corps if Officers Who Drink Cocktails Are Court-Martialed, Says High Naval Officer.

Washington, March 11.—Social Washington was literally agitated today over the "cocktail warfare" that Brig. Gen. Smedley D. Butler, U. S. Marine Corps, has started on the Pacific Coast.

Gen. Butler has filed charges against Col. Alexander Williams, one of the most distinguished officers of the corps, because Col. Williams served cocktails at a dinner given in Butler's honor upon his arrival to take over the marine base at San Diego.

Butler's unprecedented action against his host was the subject of discussion at every dinner and tea table in the capital's official and smart set, and some of the conversation would have made the general's ears burn had he heard it. The opinion was quite prevalent among Washington hostesses that if Gen. Butler was stationed in Washington he would have few invitations hereafter.

Secretary of the Navy Wilbur and Maj. Gen. John A. Lejeune, Commandant of the Marine Corps, upon whose shoulders will fall the responsibility of determining whether Col. Williams is to be tried by a court martial, had not received the formal charges today, and in their absence they refused to comment.

However, one high naval officer expressed the opinion that "if we start court-martialing every officer who drinks a cocktail we won't have any navy, any marine corps or any army, either, for that matter."

NO CHANGE IN CONDITION OF COLONEL COOLIDGE.

Plymouth, Vt., March 11.—Colonel John C. Coolidge, eighty-year-old father of the president, was still suffering some pain but his condition showed no cause for immediate alarm today, according to reports brought from his bedside.

The colonel's appetite is good although he is confined to his bed. A heart ailment has caused him to lose the use of his legs.

Snow drifts on the Ludlow-Plymouth road today were as high, in some places, as the tops of the apple trees. Snowmobiles were the only vehicles to negotiate the immense drifts.

A crew of men were at work breaking out the Bridgewater-Plymouth road for Dr. A. E. Cram, the colonel's physician. Dr. Cram with his horse and sleigh has been obliged to literally fight his way through the snow drifts almost every day in order to reach the bedside of his patient.

If President Coolidge should come here to see his father, in the near future he would have a difficult task to travel from the Ludlow Railroad Station to his father's home.

KLANSMEN ENTER JAIL AND SEIZE PRISONER

Wolffville, N. S., March 11.—Six masked Ku Klux Klansmen entered the jail here early today by means of a skeleton key and seized James Andrews, of Silver Springs, Montana, who was held on a technical charge of vagrancy.

Andrews was taken to the boundary of the town, where he was told that he would be tarred and feathered if he came here again.

Later the authorities recaptured the man and took him to the Kentville jail. Sympathizers are raising a fund to send him home to Montana.

NO CHANGE IN ADMISSION PRICE IN READER'S THEATRE.

There has been no change in the admission price at Reader's Kingston Theatre, formerly Keener's. Through error the advertisement of the theatre Wednesday evening stated the admission prices were 25 and 30 cents, and should have read 25 cents for matinees and 35 cents for evenings.

Young Rich Gets Life Sentence

Arthur Rich, Millionaire's Son, Convicted of Criminally Attacking Louise King—"Modern Girl" Vindicated, Says Injured Girl.

Mason, Mich., March 11.—The "modern girl" has been vindicated. This was the comment made today of Miss Louise King, pretty blonde college student, on the conviction of Arthur Rich, millionaire's son, charged with criminally attacking her.

"I feel," said Miss King, "that girls like myself—girls referred to in this case as 'modern girls'—have been vindicated. It must be terrible hard on Arthur's parents. But it was hard on my mother, and it was terrible for me, with my jaw broken and afraid of going mad because of what Arthur had done to me."

Rich was on his way to Jackson prison today escorted by a "flying squadron" of state police to begin a life sentence imposed by Judge Charles B. Collingwood. Haggard after a sleepless night in a cell here, Rich partook of his first prison fare this morning.

Within an hour before he was sentenced Rich was smiling and planning a vacation in California. In a half hour his destiny was changed. He was convicted by a jury, on the first ballot, sentenced to life imprisonment and jailed.

"It's a sad thing to have to sentence a man of Rich's years to life imprisonment," said Judge Collingwood today.

"It's sad, but in this case there were no extenuating circumstances. There was nothing to justify that brutal attack on the golf grounds."

"It was not easy to give that life sentence. I have a son about the same age as Arthur Rich. But emotions have no place in the administration of justice."

Miss King, the girl who came to Battle Creek College from Washington, Pa., to work her way through school, accused Arthur Rich of attacking her on the golf links of the Battle Creek Country Club, where she had gone with the millionaire's son to look at the spot where he said he had rained a remarkable golf shot.

Rich rained blows upon her face, breaking her jaw, her nose and inflicting other injuries, she said.

The defense claimed that Miss King helped arrange the party, that she smoked cigarettes, that she had there was liquor in the automobile; that she was drunk; that she indulged in "petting"; that she carried a blanket from Rich's automobile; and that her scant attire provoked Rich's advances.

Benefit Movie at Reade's Sunday

The Reade Kingston Theatre, formerly Keener's, will be open Sunday afternoon and evening for the benefit of the Kingston City Hospital building fund.

A most attractive program will no doubt draw a large audience. Manager Roberts has secured two fine, clean pictures for the Sunday showing, films that in book form would make excellent reading for anybody.

Richard Barthelmess in "Shore Leave" has done a fine piece of work, and is always popular. The comedy is of a high grade, too, Harold Lloyd in "Now or Never" has the rare faculty of being funny without vulgarity. These two pictures alone should fill the house, but in addition there is Pathe News, and a delightful musical program arranged by Mrs. Helen Stern Mann.

There will be but two performances. One at 2:30 in the afternoon and the other at 8:15 in the evening. The admission price at both performances is the same, fifty cents, all of which goes to the hospital. Friends of the institution should pack the house at this benefit which is under the auspices of the Sisterhood of Temple Emanuel.

Stabber Suspect Toted Shears

Boston, March 11.—Boston's mysterious "stabber" suspect, taken into custody at the Park Square building, and held in connection with stabbing of five different women in the Back Bay Section was placed in a "line-up" today at police headquarters while women victims tried to pick out their assailant. The man is now held on a technical complaint of being a suspicious person.

The prisoner, whose name is withheld by the police pending positive identification, claims a residence in Somerville and explained his presence in Boston by the fact that he was looking for work. On his person was found three pairs of shears around to a needle point and with almost a razor edge.

The Park Square Section was patrolled today by a large detail of extra police, including five policemen who were sent out to try to lure the "stabber" into the police net. The policemen were only with clubs.

Preparatory work will be held in the court of the Boston Police Department on Sunday at 7:00 o'clock.

$25,000 Bequest Not Known Here

A recent issue of the El Reno, Oklahoma, American, published the following:

An unexpected but welcome letter was received by Mrs. G. A. Groseclose of this city last week when the following information was given: "This is to notify you that you have been made an heir of A. E. Aunt, Kingston, N. Y. Enclosed check for $25,000, your share of the estate."

Mrs. Groseclose declares that she did not know the existence of such a relative, but has found out since that he was a cousin of her mother.

The El Reno Democrat also announced that:

Mrs. George A. Groseclose, 735 South Hadden, will shortly appear in the Fox News Reel, according to a representative of that organization, who took the picture of Mrs. Groseclose in various poses yesterday.

Mrs. Groseclose was recently bequeathed $25,000 through the death of a relative.

The records of the Ulster county surrogate's court do not show any A. E. Aunt estate, or any other estate giving the bequest mentioned.

CRIMSON AUTHORITIES FAVOR HAUGHTON SYSTEM

Cambridge, Mass., March 11.—The selection of Arnold Horween of Chicago, as head football coach at Harvard shows that the crimson athletic authorities are still in favor of the Haughton system of gridiron warfare.

Horween, star crimson back for three seasons and captain of the undefeated 1920 eleven, gained his knowledge of the game as a charge of Coach Bob Fisher, whom he succeeds and Fisher, a star pupil of the late Percy Haughton when that genius was personally in charge of the Harvard gridiron destiny, always taught his master's system.

Tommy Gruberg's Story.

On the stand Tommy Gruberg told he had been induced to make out slips and have them charged to Mr. Craft. He said that Mr. Samuels made out some of the slips while seated on his truck. He said that these "fake" slips were made out on many days and the original he took with him. The duplicate was kept by Mr. and Mrs. Samuels. After carrying the "fake" slips around in his pocket for a day or two he would slip them in their proper place according to date with the true slips. The amount of these "fake" slips were kept by the Samuels on a pad which was kept in the cash register. From time to time, Tommy said, an accounting was made the slips were added

Smart Afternoon Frock Is of Dark Blue Satin

Here is a smart afternoon frock of lustrous dark blue satin, with collar of champagne satin, worn high. The same color of satin forms the lower half of the tailored balloon sleeves. Panels on either side give the bouffant effect.

Two-Piece Frock Still in Fashion Limelight

The two-piece, merrily named the jumper suit, is the answer to the general demand for travel, morning wear and general utility. This type of dress promises to have a vogue as universal and as enduring as the chemise frock and the cloche hat. It is a most satisfactory all-round costume. For the trim little coat and skirt which the best couturiers are making, kasha appears to be the most successful material, with serge, lightweight cheviot, rep and the corded silks also much in demand. These little suits are of sufficient sophistication in cut to be worn by older women, and still are appropriate for younger ones. They are by no means commonplace. For all the simplicity of their composition, the most distinguished designs, both in Paris and on this side, have given importance to this fashion. Some introduce a picturesque note that is interesting, sometimes amusing. One finds a suggestion of the American cowboy's dress, of the traditional artist's suit, even of the Parisian apache. Molyneux, Worth, Poiret, Philippe et Gaston and Lanvin are all presenting some charming things of this sort. Molyneux, in particular, has designed a clever suit of staple blue serge that many women like. The jacket, which just covers the hips, is cut on the sacque-coat lines, double breasted, with long, narrow revers and side pockets. The concession to the up-to-the-minute mode is made in the skirt, which is stitched in box pleats that flare, giving to the skirt a circular appearance. The regulation tailored crepe de chine overblouse in white or some light shade is worn with the suit. A rakish air is given to the ensemble by the gray beaver hat, which shades the eyes, and a cravat scarf of bright red silk, knotted at one side.

Decorated Hosiery Is Attracting Attention

Many wonderful displays of stockings, uniquely decorated, have been seen in the last few months. These range from the beautiful to the grotesque, but the most popular seems to be the embroidered serpent in natural colors that will encircle many slim beige-clad ankles. Others will boast "anklers" of rhinestones, woven into the silk fabric and playing havoc with it whenever the leg is thoughtfully crossed.

Other stockings boast flowers or embroidered garlands of flowers or cascades of beads, either up the sides or on the front. Some have inserts of other materials, charming, beaded or hand-painted silk. Anything goes, provided it hasn't been done before. Another innovation is a fine lace net stocking in black, gold or silver.

Fur New Product in Blue, Red and Violet

Much fur is being used on both coats and coats this winter, and also in the most soft and artistic combinations on evening gowns and evening coats. The furs that are especially good are rabbit, gazelle, cat, ermine and caracul.

Other trimmings for both coats and dresses are pelottes, buckles of various kinds and beads. Among the newest models shown in Paris are coats of blue velvet with trimming of white cat. Dried rabbit skins are furnishing odd bits of color in the line of fur. This fur is now produced in the darker shades of blue, red and violet. It is employed also in narrow bands on hats.

Green Kasha Is Smart

With complete frocks and sports coats for the South show the vogue of green in all its tones, and emphasize the chic of kasha.

Summer Christmas Alaska

The territory of Alaska received its name from Charles Sumner in a speech addressed to the Senate in June of 1868. It is a corruption of an Alut word signifying the midnight sun which shined from the Alaskan Islands.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsion of cod liver oil, which is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with real value; it soothes and breaks the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat trouble. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and break the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory distress, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Company, Adams, Pa. (666).

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

THE BIRTHDAY

"Grunt, grunt," said Brother Bacon. "I've something to tell you, friend pigs."

"Squeal, squeal," said Miss Ham. "What is it, Brother Bacon?"

"Grunt, grunt," said Grandfather Porky Pig. "Tell your grandfather what it is."

"Grunt, grunt, squeal, squeal," said Brother Bacon's mother. "You must tell your dear mamma all about it."

"What is it, Brother Bacon?" squealed the little Black Squealer.

"I'd like to hear, too," said Mr. Pig.

"I'd like to hear a secret," said Mr. Pig.

"Grunt, grunt," said Sir Percival Pork. "Let us hear what it is, Brother Bacon."

"Let us hear, grunt, grunt," said Sir Benjamin Bacon.

"That's what I say, grunt, grunt, squeal, squeal," said Pinky Pig.

"Squeal, squeal, that's what I say," said Master Pinky Pig.

"Grunt, grunt, I say the same," said Master Pinky Pig.

"Squeal, squeal, so do I," said Mrs. Pink Pig and Pinky's mother said.

"Grunt, grunt, tell us, Brother Bacon."

"We want to hear," said Sammy Sausage. "Grunt, grunt," he added. "We want to hear."

"Grunt, grunt, tell us what you have to tell us," said Grunter.

"Well," said Brother Bacon, "it is the usual way. You all grunt and squeal so much about wanting to hear that you don't give me a chance to speak."

"Speak, grunt, grunt," said Grandfather Porky Pig.

"Speak, squeal, squeal," said Miss Ham.

"Speak, grunt, grunt, squeal, squeal," said Brother Bacon's mother.

"Speak, squeal, squeal," said little Black Squealer.

"Speak, grunt, grunt," said Sir Percival Pork.

"Speak, grunt, grunt," said Sir Benjamin Bacon.

"Speak, grunt, grunt, squeal, squeal," said Pinky Pig.

"Speak, squeal, squeal," said Master Pinky Pig.

"Speak, squeal, squeal," said Master Pinky Pig.

"Speak, squeal, squeal," said Mrs. Pink Pig.

"Speak, grunt, grunt," said Pinky's mother.

"Speak, grunt, grunt," said Sammy Sausage.

"Speak, grunt, grunt," said Grunter.

"I will at once, grunt, grunt, before you get a chance to interrupt me again," said Brother Bacon.

"I haven't had a birthday in ever so long, not in ever and ever so long, and the last one I thought I should have I never had."

"So I should surely have one now."

"Besides today is a Saturday. I believe, or maybe it is a Friday, or maybe a Thursday, or maybe a Wednesday, or maybe a Tuesday, or maybe a Monday."

"But anyway one of those days will do as I was born on one of those days."

"So now make up for your past performances upon birthdays I have wanted to have—performances where you did nothing for me at all."

"Grunt, grunt, I should say not," said Grandfather Porky.

"Squeal, squeal, I should say not," said Brother Bacon's mother.

"Squeal, squeal, I should say not," said little Black Squealer.

"Grunt, grunt, I should say not," said Sir Percival Pork.

"Grunt, grunt, I should say not," said Sir Benjamin Bacon.

"Grunt, grunt, squeal, squeal, I should say not," said Pinky Pig.

"Squeal, squeal, I should say not," said Master Pinky Pig.

"Squeal, squeal, I should say not," said Master Pinky Pig.

"Squeal, squeal, I should say not," said Mrs. Pink Pig.

"Grunt, grunt, I should say not," said Pinky's mother.

"Grunt, grunt, I should say not," said Sammy Sausage.

"Grunt, grunt, I should say not," said Grunter.

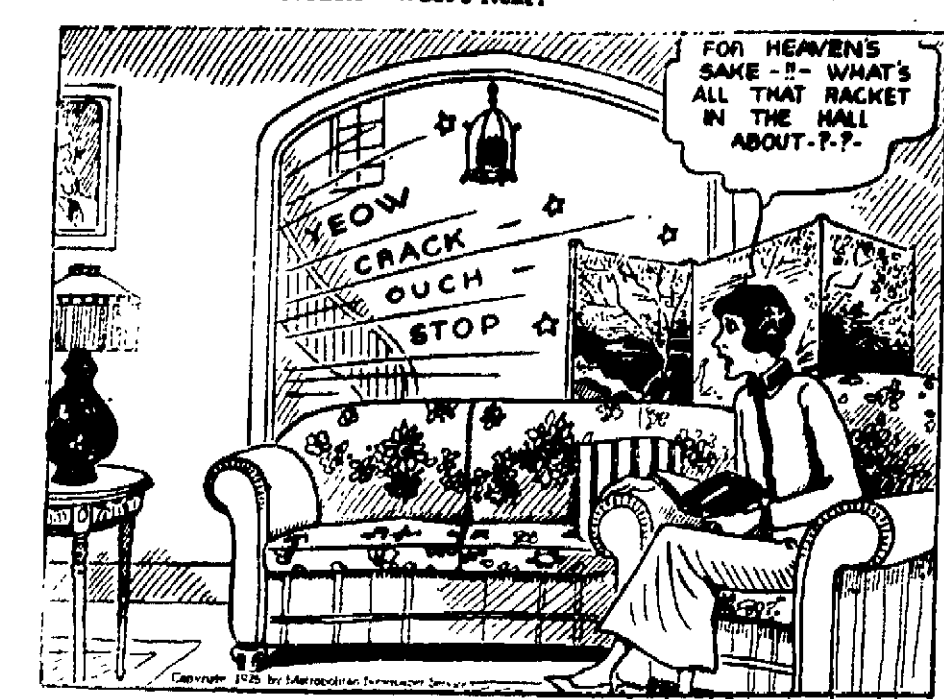

"So Brother Bacon could not celebrate his birthday."

Correct

"Now," said the teacher, impressively, "why should we endeavor to rise by our own efforts?"

"Because," replied Tommy, "there's no jumping when the alarm clock will go wrong." — T.H. Pitts

HOW TO BUILD AND USE WAVE TRAP

Inexpensive to Buy and Simple to Operate.

F. M. Russell.

A wave trap is a very simple piece of apparatus to construct and will assist considerably in helping to separate stations operating near the same wavelengths. There are various types of wave traps but all are connected into the circuit in such a manner that when properly constructed and operated they help eliminate undesired signals.

They are divided into three principal classes: (1) The Receptor type, which are connected into the aerial in series with the tuned circuit connected to the set. (2) The Acceptor type, which is connected in parallel across the antenna circuit. (3) The Absorption type, which is a separately tuned circuit loosely coupled to the antenna circuit.

Of these various types, the Receptor type is probably the best for all round use and consists of a circuit having a large variable capacity and just enough inductance to react the higher wavelengths desired. A condenser having a capacity of .001 M.F. and an inductance of say 30 turns of No. 22 or No. 24 gauge D.C.C. wire wound on a 2 1/2 or 3 inch tube will probably be the correct values. Select a station having the highest wavelength you desire to receive and tune it in at maximum capacity on the condenser of wave trap. If you are not able to use the full capacity of the condenser, it shows that you have too many turns on the coil and should remove one turn at a time until you have the station tuned in with the condenser at maximum capacity.

To use the wave trap, tune in the interfering signal by means of the wavetraps to a point of maximum selectivity and leave in this position, then tune receiver in the usual way.

Nutty Natural History

By HUGH HUTTON.

THE AMBIDEXTROUS INDEX

The index is a special breed of pointer developed by the partridge hunters of Terra Del Fuego. On sighting a partridge, it points in the direction with its tail, and reverses its feet in the same direction. In case the hunter's shells are frozen by the cold winds blowing off Cape Horn, the word of command is given and the index, throwing its head back over its shoulders, dashes off at the quarry and impales him on the sharply pointed tail. As it is more adept in this position, biologists have not been able to determine whether its feet grow backwards or its head and tail have been interchanged.

In any case, there is no doubt that its feet are split paws, with clove legs. The body is a paper-shell process, the head a single-point and the neck and ears are clove. The tail is a highly tempered toothpick ground down to a fine point.

The Hotel Stenographer

IF THEY cremate me, Kelly, they will have to do it when I am unconscious," cried the Hotel Stenographer spiritedly.

"Ha, ha!" laughed the House Detective. "That's what they always do when they cremate them. They wait till they are unconscious."

"Then watch out when you are passing a crematory, Kelly, 'cause it's liable to happen to you at any time," snapped the girl.

"What I mean is that I don't want anybody burning me up in this world. We all take chances enough on having that happen to us in the next one."

"I don't know much about heaven, Kelly, but I'm blessed if I will put St. Peter or any of his assistants to the trouble of trying to make me over again out of a little bunch of ashes. It will be job enough to do, anyway."

"Kelly, think of the chance after they put your ashes in a vase, of getting knocked off the parlor-mantel by some careless person and laying on your side for a week or two on the hearth until somebody sees you and sets you back again. If you set on the bookcase, the cat is apt to prowl around and knock you out of the window. I want to be buried in the regular way and have flowers put on me when they happen to think of me and have mocking birds sing in the cedar tree over my head and all."

"Kelly, no one will ever cremate me without me raising my voice in protest. I like the fresh air and a hot room always makes me sneeze and then my complexion runs and if they want to make me happy they better keep me out of one of those furnaces."

WHEN I WAS TWENTY-ONE

BY JOSEPH KAYE

At 21—Prof. Irving Fisher Was in Vocational Doubt.

"AT THE age of twenty-one I was in my senior year at Yale university. When it came to choosing my life work, I was in doubt. I liked to be a lawyer, and I also thought well of teaching mathematics. I eventually decided upon the latter course and entered the graduate school the following year with that end in view. I then became interested in mathematical economics and ended by becoming an economist—Irving Fisher."

TODAY—Professor Fisher is one of the most famous economists in America, with an international reputation. He is at present professor of political economy at Yale.

REPORT ANOTHER OLD RACE

Lived Thousands of Years Ago, in Nile Valley.

Remains of a people who lived in the valley of the Nile about fourteen thousand years ago are on view at University College, London.

They were found by workers connected with the British School of Archaeology in Egypt during recent excavations at Badari and in the Fayum, and include beads and ivory spoons, pottery which is finer than any made today, combs and even dolls.

Miss Carter-Thompson worked at first in the Fayum district, an arid area where water had to be taken to her 15 miles by motor car, over land which the most ardent workers had hitherto thought to be impassable for cars.

The workers say it is quite impossible to give a complete picture of the lives led by these people. "We have only found traces of them in one part of Egypt, and we can say that there was a large settlement of them, probably as big as an Arab village of modern times."

"We think there were people of importance and people of lesser importance. We found no linen in the graves of the less important people. They were wrapped in a leather garment, and all the bodies were really wrapped in quantities of matting."

"The Nile valley was at that time covered with swamps on which wild reeds grew. We found the remains of a tremendous lot of matting made from these wild reeds."

"These people were apparently principally occupied as hunters, but they had emerged into the agricultural stage. They grew corn and made bread, and put both into the tombs of their dead."

"They could make linen, but only small pieces about the size of a pocket handkerchief have been found. No traces of writing have been found, and so we can say nothing of their social organization."

"In the tomb of a man of the period many interesting things were found. Beside his waist he had worn strings of beads made from glazed green, over a belt made from the fur of some curiously animal."

"There was a little field of linen, which pointed to his having been a person of importance. An enormous head of 'chamom' had been buried round his neck. Above the elbow of his left arm he wore a string of black shells, of a kind which are still found on the shores of the Red sea."

On a Japanese Railway Train

The toy train goes along at 10 or 15 miles an hour, unless it be an express, when it sometimes rocks across space at twice that speed. When well out of the station, the sound of wheels dropping on the rails is heard. Stockinged feet are drawn up on the bench. The men sprawl at full length, while the women crouch in any space left by their lords and masters.

At every station there are provided little lunch boxes of this white wood divided into compartments. These are filled with rice, shredded fish and pickled lotus root. Then there are earthen pots containing tea, the covers forming the cup; and fish and meat tinned with oranges, lemon cubes and bananas. From the car floor suggests a neglect of restaurant style. When They Forget

A New York publisher was talking about the popular English novelists—H. G. Wells, Arnold Bennett, E. M. Lawrence, Frank Swettenham.

"They all spring from the people," he said, "and they all talk like the people when they get excited and forget themselves."

Veritable Elsie Mackay

One of the most versatile of the young women of England's aristocracy is Miss Elsie Mackay, who has been elected to the advisory committee of the British Air League. Miss Mackay, who is the daughter of Lord Inchiquin, the shipping and banking magnate, has been a licensed aviator since 1922. At one time she was success as an actress under the stage name of Peggy Wyndham. She also has displayed her genius and skill by designing the interior decoration of many of the ships belonging to the big company controlled by her father.

It makes no difference whether you belong to the Legion. All ex-servicemen are invited.

There will be six snappy four-round bouts put on by some of the best exponents of the manly art. These boys will mix it up first. Then a regular old fashioned wrestling match will be put on. The entire program will be one to bring back memories of the good old war days in camp, on ship and "over here."

CREAN BRUSH HAS HIS DAY.

Boston, March 11, 1876.—This has been Crean Brush's day in Boston. Crean Brush, a person with a dubious past and an ambition for a prosperous future, attached himself to the King's forces in this way because he thought that that was the side on which his bread is buttered. General Howe, as one feature of his plans for removing his army from Boston, has issued a proclamation to the people to the effect that they are to hand over to Brush all their arms and ammunition. The King's army, under the command of official authority, the British soldiers and sailors have started a treasure hunt of their own, resulting in still more arms for the King. All the King's men are now on the march, and the King's army is now on the march, and the King's army is now on the march.

Encouraged by Brush's pillaging under cover of official authority, the British soldiers and sailors have started a treasure hunt of their own, resulting in still more arms for the King. All the King's men are now on the march, and the King's army is now on the march, and the King's army is now on the march.

He does not want for articles which would enable the King to carry on the war against the rebels. He has a large number of arms and ammunition, and he has a large number of arms and ammunition, and he has a large number of arms and ammunition.

$3,000,000 Lost on Cold Storage Eggs

A conservative estimate of the loss caused by a drop in the price of cold storage eggs to dealers in the 1925-26 storage period of $3,000,000, according to reports received by Commissioner Berne A. Pyke, of the Department of Farms and Markets.

Reports received by the commissioner on eggs in storage show that between February 1 and March 1, 1926, more than a hundred thousand cases of storage eggs were placed on the market, while in the same period in 1925 around 25,000 cases were taken out of storage for sale.

Various reasons are given for the deflation in price and resultant loss, one being the heavy supplies of fresh eggs resulting from the mild weather in the west and middle west during December and January. Another is the heavy importation of "frozen" eggs from China. Eggs which were placed in storage at a cost of 36 cents a dozen have been taken out to be sold at 20 cents a dozen or less, while it is estimated that possibly the average loss per dozen is around 10 cents.

In March 1, this year, 14,345 cases of eggs in cold storage were taken out, while in February 1 of this year as 120,890. On March 1, 1925, there were 2,077 cases in storage in this state and on February 1, 1926, there were 27,867 cases, according to reports received by Commissioner Pyke. Of the number in cold storage March 1, 1926, 9,251 cases were in storage in New York city and 1,217 in plants in Buffalo.

In 1925 dealers began placing eggs in storage in March and continued through April and May. In March of last year the weather was such that egg production started early. By September 1, 1925, 1,478,337 cases were in storage in the state. This is slightly in excess of the number in storage September 1, 1924, which was 1,328,466 cases.

It is contended by dealers that the importation of eggs from China was a very important factor in reducing the demand for New York state cold storage eggs. It is reported that syndicates collect eggs in China, remove the shells, freeze them, and ship them to this country in tin containers. This supply is used generally by baking concerns, and as a result these concerns did not draw on the eggs in cold storage.

It is not indicated that the increased production was a very strong factor, since on September 1, 1924, there were 1,328,466 cases of eggs in storage and on September 1, 1925, 1,478,337 cases. In other words, there were about 150,000 more cases in storage on September 1 last year than on September 1, 1924.

DAIRY

SELECT PURE-BRED SIRES WITH CARE

Using any kind of a pure-bred sire will not insure success. Poor animals are produced occasionally in pure-bred herds and judgment is needed in selecting a pure-bred sire. A poor individual with a registration certificate back of him may be some better than a grade with no pedigree, but that will not make him a profitable investment. A good sire needs to be a well balanced individual, he should be by a proven sire, out of a high-producing dam, and with plenty of good producing ancestry back of them.

The best proof of a good sire is to have produced uniformly good offspring, but such sires are not often for sale except at high prices. If an animal cannot produce good offspring, neither pedigree or show type is of much value, but it is unlikely that such a combination will occur. True type is just the best form that according to all the experience of breeders is likely to produce good results. A good pedigree is one which, according to all the laws of animal breeding, should produce good results. A combination of the two in a herd sire should guarantee satisfactory offspring as far as one can judge without an actual test in the herd.

To get the most value out of pure-bred sires always use animals of the same breed. Crossing breeds may sometimes produce high-grade individuals from the standpoint of production, but it breaks up the lines of heredity so that no continuation of good qualities is likely. If, however, one uses pure-bred sires of one type, for ten years or more, he will produce a high-grade herd with a high-selling value, excellent appearance and high production combined.—Charles I. Bray, Colorado Agricultural College.

Good Feeding Pays Well in Production of Milk

It is a well-established fact that it usually pays to feed heavy producers a liberal amount of the right kind of concentrated feeds. The records of a herd of seven pure-bred cows in the Grinnell-Newton Cow Testing association of Iowa again demonstrated this fact.

Each month the feed was changed on this herd of cows and the total amount was increased. There was a steady increase in the amount of milk and butterfat produced as well as in total profit, even though the cost of producing a pound of butterfat remained practically constant. In other words, the increase in the amount of concentrates did not cheapen the cost of producing a pound of butterfat, but the increase in production made a greater net profit.

In February the cows were fed ear corn and whole oats with silage and alfalfa hay. In March the grain mixture was corn and cob meal, six parts; prepared dairy feed, three parts; bran, three parts, and oats, one part. The feed cost per cow increased $4.35, while the net profit was increased $12.91. In April the supply of alfalfa and silage became limited so that it was necessary to cut down on these feeds and further increase the concentrates. Some oil meal was fed. The total feed cost was slightly increased as well as a slight increase in the cost of producing a pound of butterfat.

This would show that it does not pay to overfeed on concentrates at the expense of roughages, such as silage and alfalfa hay.

Creatures of Habit

Cows, like the rest of us, are creatures of habit; when you get them in the habit of getting their grain or hay at a particular time, they miss it if they do not get it. Feed your different feeds in rotation, the same every day and at the same time of day. That is all there is to that. The same with giving them water. Don't water one day in the morning, and the next day at night.

Dairy Notes

Maintenance of the proper speed and even pressure on the separator handle is an important factor in the separation of milk and cream.

Alfalfa hay is at the top of the list of roughages for the dairy cow, because of its high protein content and its palatability.

Although an extremely efficient machine, the modern cream separator is highly refined in construction and cannot be abused.

The cleanest and sweetest cream is obtained when milk is separated immediately after milking and then cooled to near fifty degrees.

For dairy cows feedings should be fed at the rate of about three pounds to every hundred pounds live weight, with hay.

Silage alone will not insure cheap milk. Its "twin" must also be available. Legume hay must be supplied if we are to secure the most milk per acre.

Apes Do Not Laugh

Laughter, as a method of expressing amusement, which is common to all the human race. Some animals make noises resembling laughter, but such sounds have no relation to the phenomenon we call laughter.—Exchange.

See how amazingly white your week's wash now becomes —in half the time no washboard rubbing

WOMEN everywhere are astonished at the new kind of soap that washes clothes by gently soaking out the dirt. It gets the family wash whiter than ever, without hard rubbing—and with absolute safety to clothes.

Rinso is an entirely new kind of soap—granulated. It dissolves quickly and loosens the ground-in dirt. It is all you need on washday, even in hardest water.

Just soak the wash in Rinso suds—overnight or an hour or two in the morning. Then rinse—and the clothes are whiter, sweeter, cleaner than you could ever rub them! Dirt and stains float off in the soaking. Even the most soiled places need only a gentle rub between the fingers to make them spotless.

Saves hands — saves clothes

No laundry soap is easier on hands or safer to use than Rinso. It contains no acids, harsh chemicals or bleaches—nothing to injure white clothes or fast colors.

Rinso makes clothes last longer—because it ends the wear and tear of washboard scrubbing.

Fine for washing machines

Rinso gives wonderful results in the washing machine. Recommended by 23 leading washing machine manufacturers for safety, and for a whiter, brighter wash. Fine for boiling—though boiling isn't necessary, as Rinso sterilizes as it washes. Get Rinso, for small cost, from your grocer. Follow directions on package.

Rinso

The Granulated Soap that Soaks Clothes Whiter

"Washdays never bother me now. No more rough, red, swollen hands. I have found Rinso saves all these—and makes my week's wash cleaner, whiter and sweeter than ever before. Now I simply soak my clothes in Rinso suds overnight. In the morning all the dirt is taken out, and all I have to do is just rinse them. I find even the most soiled spots need only a few gentle rubs to make them nice and white."

Rural Carriers Want Clear Roads

Lewis F. Sinabach of Montgomery, president of the State Federation of Rural Letter Carriers, appeared before the committee of Internal Affairs of the state assembly at Albany recently in support of the bill offered by Assemblyman Dominick of the first assembly district of Orange County by which amendments are made to the highway law in the matter of removal of snow from town highways.

As rural carrier, Mr. Sinabach has had ample opportunity in the past month to know of the difficulties of those living on town roads, as disclosed in the work of the carriers. Even now when the main arteries are in good condition, the country roads over which the carrier must travel are almost impassable.

The measure in question makes it obligatory for boards of supervisors to see to the removal of snow from town highways. The boards are already authorized to raise money for snow removal, and this measure specifies that 25 per cent of the sum so raised shall be expended on town highways.

It is understood that the committee will report the bill favorably. The difficulty now is that any trip that involves the use of both town and state highways is practically impossible; automobiles cannot be used on the town roads, and horses and sleighs cannot be used on the state roads.

HIGHLAND.
Highland, March 11—Friday afternoon, March 15, the members of the Auxiliary Club wended their way to "Glen View," the home of Captain and Mrs. R. H. All were received and welcomed by the hostess and when the gavel fell for order, Mrs. Emma Merritt conducted devotional exercises, after which business was taken up and there was plenty of it. There will be a luncheon on the 17th of March at the home of Mrs. J. R. Seaman for the missionary fund. Then on April 8 a banquet will be served in the M. E. Church parlors to grand officers of the O. E. S. and shortly after that a dinner at the same place for the kitchen fund. These are all to be under the auspices of the Auxiliary Club. At this meeting two new members were elected, Mrs. Leavitt Proctor and Mrs. Bradford Freer. The club has as guests Mrs. Charles Terwilliger of Lloyds and Mrs. H. A. Lent of this place. Reports of all chairmen of committees were favorable. An elaborate menu was served, enjoyed and appreciated. Late when all left, the memories of the afternoon lingered with all and formed one of the pleasant spots in the book of fond recollections of happy hours spent with the president.

Rural Carriers Want Clear Roads

Lewis F. Sinabach of Montgomery, president of the State Federation of Rural Letter Carriers, appeared before the committee of Internal Affairs of the state assembly at Albany recently in support of the bill offered by Assemblyman Dominick of the first assembly district of Orange County by which amendments are made to the highway law in the matter of removal of snow from town highways.

As rural carrier, Mr. Sinabach has had ample opportunity in the past month to know of the difficulties of those living on town roads, as disclosed in the work of the carriers. Even now when the main arteries are in good condition, the country roads over which the carrier must travel are almost impassable.

The measure in question makes it obligatory for boards of supervisors to see to the removal of snow from town highways. The boards are already authorized to raise money for snow removal, and this measure specifies that 25 per cent of the sum so raised shall be expended on town highways.

It is understood that the committee will report the bill favorably. The difficulty now is that any trip that involves the use of both town and state highways is practically impossible; automobiles cannot be used on the town roads, and horses and sleighs cannot be used on the state roads.

HIGHLAND.
Highland, March 11—Friday afternoon, March 15, the members of the Auxiliary Club wended their way to "Glen View," the home of Captain and Mrs. R. H. Decker, who is president for the 27th year, for their regular meeting. Nearly 70 were present. All were received and welcomed by the hostess and when the gavel fell for order, Mrs. Emma Merritt conducted devotional exercises, after which business was taken up and there was plenty of it. There will be a luncheon on the 17th of March at the home of Mrs. J. R. Seaman for the missionary fund. Then on April 8 a banquet will be served in the M. E. Church parlors to grand officers of the O. E. S. and shortly after that a dinner at the same place for the kitchen fund. These are all to be under the auspices of the Auxiliary Club. At this meeting two new members were elected, Mrs. Leavitt Proctor and Mrs. Bradford Freer. The club has as guests Mrs. Charles Terwilliger of Lloyds and Mrs. H. A. Lent of this place. Reports of all chairmen of committees were favorable. An elaborate menu was served, enjoyed and appreciated. Late when all left, the memories of the afternoon lingered with all and formed one of the pleasant spots in the book of fond recollections of happy hours spent with the president.

Coal Situation In Great Britain

Findings of Coal Commission Pleased Neither Operators nor Employees Opposed to Nationalization of Mines.

London, March 11.—Prospects for peace in the British coal industry were still remote today despite the publication of the long awaited report of the coal commission.

It was apparent that neither operators nor employees were pleased with the findings of the commission.

The volume and exhaustiveness of the report, while forbidding swift analysis, makes several things clear.

These are, briefly, that the commission is unalterably opposed to nationalization of the mines; that the subsidy under which the mines are now operating be terminated immediately and never be renewed, and finally, that the British government should take steps to acquire ownership of the nation's mineral wealth and permit the operation of the mines under concession to private individuals.

The recommendations against nationalization have dealt a staggering blow to the extremely large and constantly growing group favoring nationalization.

The commission's treatment of the subsidy is emphatic and does not mince words. In this connection the report made it clear that the commission was opposed to virtually all of the temporary remedies which have been proposed.

The newspapers representing the chief parties in the coal controversy make clear their displeasure and disappointment with the report.

The Duke of Northumberland's Morning Post is opposed to satisfying the discontent of the miners by the distribution of royalties.

The Daily Herald said, taking the workers' viewpoint:

"The report contains little that could really contribute to a solution of the problem. The miners are grievously disappointed."

It was authoritatively estimated that the taking over of the nation's mineral wealth, as suggested in the report, would cost the government $500,000,000.

Every knock is a boost but few of us care to be boosted that way.

EDITH R. MCCORMICK

Federal Judge Baltzell, in Indianapolis, Ind., indicated he will dismiss the suit of Harold F. McCormick, Chicago millionaire, to tie up the $7,500,000 trust fund, the bulk of which was left by John D. Rockefeller, Sr., to Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick, his daughter, who was McCormick's first wife.

Cold Causes Given

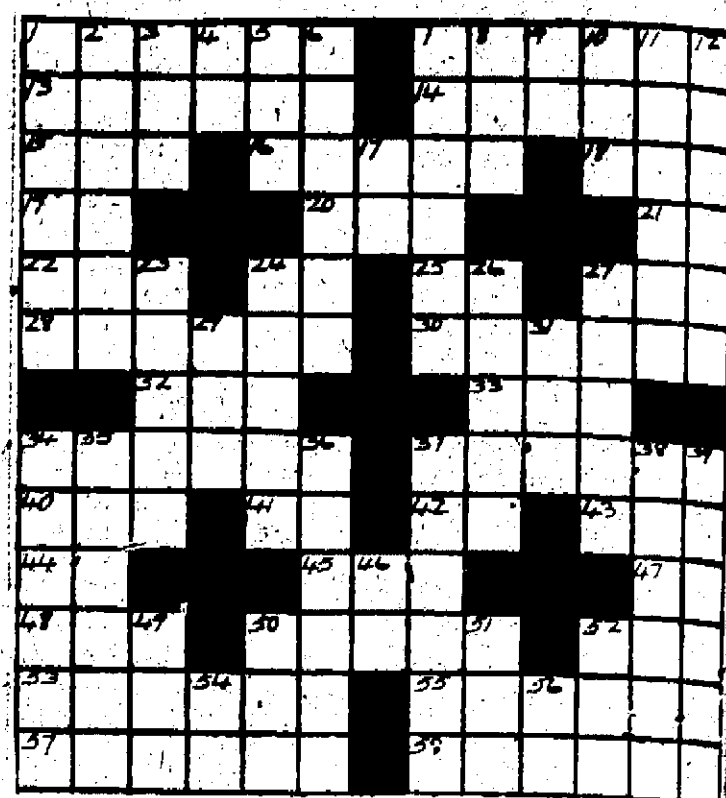

Causes for colds, attributed to hundreds of different atmospheric and physical disturbances, are chiefly over-fatigue and static air, according to a bulletin issued by the United States public health service. The majority of colds are "caught" during the months when little outdoor exercise is taken.

Widely-Known Memorial

The Lion of Lucerne is an important memorial in the town of Lucerne, Switzerland. It is carved out of the side of a grotto from a model by Thorwaldsen, to commemorate the defense of the Tulleries, in Paris, August 10, 1792, by the Swiss guards, who were massacred by the mob. The lion is 28 feet in length.

Power of Attorney

Our word attorney is said to have been derived from the French "tour," meaning turn. An attorney is a person qualified to act for another at law. A person not a member of the legal profession can be empowered by a written authorization to represent another person and act for him with respect to a certain matter or generally.

Controlling Climate

Climate is controlled to suit the most exacting needs in the work of the horticulturist and plant breeder in the greenhouses at the Wisconsin College of Agriculture. Many of the plants receive the light 24 hours a day, through the aid of large electric bulbs, kept burning all night. Temperature and humidity conditions are also scientifically controlled.

For Raw, Sore Throat

At the first sign of a raw, sore throat rub on a little Musterole. It goes right to the spot with a gentle, loosens congestion, draws out soreness and pain.

Musterole is a clean, white ointment made with oil of mustard. It has all the strength of the old-fashioned mustard plaster without the blister.

Nothing like Musterole for cold children. Keep it handy for instant use.

To Mothers: Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole. Jura & Tobac.

Cincinnati Reds Look Stronger

Frank Emmer, Shortstop, Adds Needed Punch—Can the Three Pitchers
Keep Up the Good Work?

Orlando, Fla., March 9.—The Cincinnati Reds look considerably stronger than they were last year when they finished a good third in the National League race and were real pennant contenders until late in August. The reason for thinking that they look better, after a little more than a week of training, is the evidence of a lot of added punch.

This punch will be furnished by Frank Emmer, the new shortstop, and whatever player is finally selected to play left field.

Emmer is 30 years old and was with the Reds for a short time during the 1916 season. He made a big reputation at Seattle last year.

Left field probably will be patrolled by Walter Christensen, who knocked down over in St. Paul last year.

At this early date, it appears certain that he will be the regular left fielder. In addition, Manager Hendricks has the speedy Bill Zitzmann, of the 1925 Reds, and Hall Sullivan, a fast boy from Marion, who was the sensation of his league last season. With Ronah in center, Walker in right and these three candidates for the other position, it appears certain that the outfield will be well guarded.

The catching of the Reds is well taken care of, even without the clever veteran, Irv Wingo, who has finished in the big league, Bubbles Hargreave will be the first string man, with Val Picinich, for 19 years in the American League, to back him up. The team also has two very good young catchers in Milton Rungrow, from the Cumberland Club of the Mid-Atlantic League and Clyde Sukeforth, who played with several clubs around Boston last year.

With regard to the Reds, it all comes down to this: Can the three pitchers, who carried the club along last year, continue to go at top speed? Donohue, the youngest of the three, is here and in splendid condition. There seems to be no doubt about him. Rixey, an older man, is holding out for a big increase in salary but the records show that they all join at last, in one way or another. The principal question is about Adolfo Luque, the game little Cuban, who pitched the best ball in the National League last year but won less than half of his games for the Reds on account of poor support at bat and in the field. Early in January, Luque suffered a serious operation for appendicitis. He has apparently fully recovered but the final result must await his first few weeks of practice. Carl Mays looks like a real come-back. A good looking youngster, who showed a lot of stuff in the first practice game and was much admired by so good a judge as Joe Tinker, is Springer, a kid left hander, from the Marshalltown, Iowa Club.

It is going to be very hard to beat the Pirates this year, but the outfit that looks as though it might put up the hardest fight against the champions is the Cincinnati club.

Sport Notes

There are nearly 1,000 former college athletes now playing professional football.

The Kentucky legislature refuses to stop race track betting under the pari-mutuel system.

In a campaign to stop race track betting, mail is now being sent from 600 tipsters in New York city.

The European ice hockey championship has been awarded to Switzerland, with Czechoslovakia second.

There are close to 100,000 professional athletes in the United States earning around $300,000,000.

An international swimming race across the English channel, to be held next summer, is being organized in Paris. Prizes amounting to $10,000 will be offered.

President Harder of the National League has rescinded an order issued last year prohibiting umpires from accompanying teams on the circuit in their spring training contests.

Judge Landis refused to comment upon the resolution adopted by the National league to have him reappointed baseball commissioner for ten years at a salary of $50,000. May be the offer rendered him speechless.

Lace-Making Old Art

Lace-making, embroidery and fine needlework in general are credited to the Greeks, and its antiquity goes back to mythology almost. Minerva is said to have originated the art of pictorial needlework. Many books on lace-making and embroidery have been traced back to the Middle Ages. The Greeks are thought to have brought it from Egypt, and the Chaldeans, whose civilization was earlier than that of the Egyptians, had developed it to a fine degree also. France gave it wide popularity after the Christian era.

Fair Enough

The above records were made in the gymnasium of the local Y. M. C. A. during the annual Hexathlon contests of 1925-4 and 5.

This season's Hexathlon begins Monday, March 15, and will be completed by the 25th. From indications of the boys in practice, which is being held daily, several of the above records will be broken.

This athletic contest is open to all boys who are members of the local association. Prizes in the form of medals, buttons and ribbons will be awarded for each event and each weight classification.

HUDDLE SYSTEM IS EASY TO USE

Coach Got Novel Idea From Sports Scribe.

A sports reporter from a Chicago newspaper was responsible for the introduction of the so-called huddle system in basketball being used successfully by Coach Maury Kent at Northwestern university this season.

The system, which has attracted considerable attention among authorities of the game and which is quite likely to be adopted widely by coaches, was brought into existence by a reporter who saw the novelty of such a method.

Coach Kent had been using the huddle for the past several years in practice games between the first and second teams where both sides used the same plays and were familiar with the hand signals.

The sports scribe watched the Purple cagers in practice one afternoon just before the opening of the present season and saw the huddle being used by the opposing five. He asked the purple mentor whether he planned to use the system in the regular games. "Sure! Why not?" said Kent, who later declared that he hadn't given the idea any thought, but when it was suggested by the reporter he saw no reason why it wouldn't work.

The system calls for no radical departure in the playing of the game. Yet it gives the team employing it a simple method of calling its plays, both on the offense and defense. During its brief existence at Northwestern the huddle has proved its value and will be continued, according to Coach Kent, who originated it.

"We find that the huddle has come up to expectations," declared Coach Kent. "It is easy to use and is more accurate than the former method of hand signaling. Contrary to popular belief it functions even when the opposing team gets the tip-off. It enables a team to vary its defense more rapidly and more surely."

Wally Pipp Denies He's Out of Baseball Sport

Wally Pipp, for 11 years first baseman of the New York Yankees and now guardian of the same position for the Cincinnati Reds, disagrees with the critics who have counted him out as a big-league ball player.

"I expect to play regularly for four or five years," says Wally. "If I didn't think I was good for several more years I would not report to the Reds. I have no idea of playing minor-league ball, and I have no intention of hanging around a big-league bench waiting for a chance to go up and pinch hit for somebody else."

Beware "Toeing In"

Americans are becoming a "toeing-in" race, but, unlike the Indian who tows in because of expediency in walking along narrow paths in the woods, the white man gets that way from constant automobile driving. Continual use of accelerator and clutch cause a tendency to pigeon-toe.

WHITE SOX CLUB LOOKS DANGEROUS

Eddie Collins' Men May Furnish Surprise of Year.

"The Chicago White Sox must be reckoned with in the American league race this year," said a former club owner during a recent meeting. "The team has a capable manager in Eddie Collins, who may produce a pennant winner if he is allowed to run things in his own way."

Collins was appointed manager of the White Sox last winter. Owner Charles A. Comiskey was persuaded by his intimate friends to give Collins a long-desired opportunity to prove that he could handle a big-league ball team.

From the beginning of the training season Collins was a success. He organized everything in connection with the team. He established a system of play that required quick wit and great mechanical skill. His pitchers were sent to the box in rotation, and better still, he inspired all of the players, young and old.

Though compelled to assign a green recruit to short field, Collins soon had the White Sox breezing along in third position, taking the dust kicked up by the Athletics and Senators. Comiskey's team had been transformed into a winner from a chronic loser.

In September, Collins injured one of his legs and was forced into retirement for the rest of the year. As he had played magnificently at second base and had batted .346, his loss disrupted the White Sox so completely that they finished in the second division.

It is the ambition of Collins to drive the White Sox until they win a world series.

New Orleans has bought Catcher Cy Lingle from Des Moines.

Babe Ruth says he will have a smashing come-back. He may mean his derby.

The Yankees, around the American league circuit, are being taken seriously as a pennant possibility.

Indianapolis is going to train at Hot Springs this year, deserting Florida, where it did its work last season.

Apparently Carpenter's object in coming to the United States is to join the Dempsey disarmament conference.

Princeton has 140 candidates for rowing, a list of 20 per cent larger than in any other year in the university's history.

Emerson G. Woff, former shortstop of the West Virginia university baseball team, has been released under option by Pittsburgh to Wilson, N. C., of the Virginia league.

Houston of the Texas league has sold Pitcher Hal Dwyer, a spitballer, to Beaumont of the same league. He was loaned to Beaumont by Houston last season.

Newark of the international league has announced the purchase of Leslie McCullough, third baseman, from the Birmingham club of the Three-I league. His home is in Brooklyn, N. Y.

Babe Ruth owed a debt as a training stunt. It probably won't help the morale of the opposing pitcher any when Babe approaches the plate the coming season swinging a pair of ears.

Outfielder Harry Hendrick has been sold by the Cleveland American league baseball club to the New York Yankees. Last spring Hendrick was sent to the Providence club of the International league.

Three clubs, the Giants, Cardinals and Phillies, had a great battle for home-run honors last season. W. C. Greason's team finally won out with 334 home runs. The Giants had 329 and the Cardinals 325.

GOT RELIEF FROM RHEUMATISM AT LAST

Spent more than $100 for remedies before help was found

How an obstinate case of rheumatism was given relief by a simple home treatment is told by a man in Los Angeles, California, who suffered for years with rheumatic pain in the feet and back.

"I spent more than $100 for liniments and medicines in twenty-four years," he writes. "Then I used Sloan's Liniment and it gave me complete relief."

And it is amazing—the quick, genuine comfort that Sloan's gives to even the most long-standing rheumatic aches. Sloan's doesn't just deaden pain—it helps your body to throw off the cause.

No need to rub even. A little Sloan's rubbed lightly on—and a healing tide of fresh, germ-destroying blood begins tingling through the aching place. Before you can feel the pain, the swelling and stiffness are relieved. Try it! All druggists—35 cents.

While Italy has hitherto been known to favor the claims for expan-indication that she was prepared to take a militant stand on the issue.

ROAD BUILDING

MORE AUTOS THAN ROADS CAN HANDLE

Construction of paved roads is lagging farther and farther behind the production of automobiles and trucks.
An interesting comparison may be drawn between the output of motor vehicles and the roads paved during the recent years by replacing the mileage of the highways built by the number of cars that can use them at the same time without too great congestion.

On each mile of two-track road built there is room for 200 automobiles, according to figures recently published by Dean A. N. Johnson of the University of Maryland. In a paper before the American Society of Civil Engineers at New York. But with this number there can be no passing around slower-moving vehicles, and all cars must move at a uniform speed.

In this paper Dean Johnson gave fifty to sixty feet as the minimum spacing between cars—or sixty to seventy-five feet, including the length of the car itself—when the cars were moving freely at twenty-five to thirty miles an hour on a main highway.
Reducing this somewhat to be conservative, 100 cars can be accommodated in use on each side of a mile or 5,200 feet of pavement 15 feet wide, so long as they keep in line and all run at the same rate.

On this basis last year only one-third of the 3,650,000 motor vehicles produced could be used at one time on the concrete roads built during the year. While this is a better showing, proportionately, than in 1919, when less than one-sixth of the new cars could be so accommodated, in the actual number of surplus cars the congestion is growing. In 1914 the difference between those made during the year and those that could be accommodated by the concrete roads built was only 350,000; in 1919 it was 1,066,- 000, while in 1924 it had risen to 2,436,000.

Automobiles Tested to Find Wind Resistance

The engineering experiment station of the Kansas State Agricultural college is working on a problem to determine the wind resistance encountered by the average automobile on the public highways. This experiment, under the direction of Prof.
L. E. Conrad, head of the civil engineering department, is only one of a group of investigations being carried out by the national highway research board in an effort to discover the best material for surfacing roads.

The college has already completed a large share of its work as tests have been made of 18 different types of bodies on various cars. The experiments are being carried on in an improvised wind tunnel 50 feet long, 12 feet wide and 10 feet high. A motor-driven fan is placed in a position to offer a maximum wind velocity of 60 miles per hour. An automobile is driven into the tunnel and fitted on a swinging platform to which are attached spring balances for measuring the resistance of the car's area against the wind pressure.

The data so far taken is interesting. It has been found that a car traveling at 30 miles per hour develops a wind resistance of only five pounds per square inch, while at 40 miles per hour the total resistance of wind amounts to 110 pounds, or 22 times greater than the first speed with only quadruple speed.

Plan Widening Lincoln Way in Pennsylvania

The prospect of a 40-foot roadway on the Lancaster pike from Philadelphia to Downingtown (30 miles) is eagerly welcome. The 20-foot width has long since ceased to give effective accommodation to the large and growing stream of traffic along this section of the Lincoln highway.

The improvement, which has already begun, will be an addition of a 10-foot concrete bed on each side of the far surface. The latter is proposed to be good for cars to come. This is highly questionable. But when it does become unworkable, it will be replaced by concrete, making a 40-foot concrete pile. The policy is later to increase the width to 20 feet.

All this is a start in the right direction. Effective progress in improving highway conditions will be made when the traffic of the future means the adoption of a simple policy to be applied on all through routes. It is concrete roadways 34 feet wide. The section carrying out of such a policy begins, the better. For the next ten years the aim should be to be ahead of traffic require 8 miles, not merely up to them or a little behind.

Need of Improvement

Further need of road improvement in national parks to meet the requirements of increased travel was emphasized in the annual report of the national park service, made public by Secretary Work. The road improvement work, which was begun under a congressional appropriation of $2,700,000 last year, will be continued until the park roads are brought to the highest standard for automobile travel.

Indian Romance

When you see a little Indian boy on the Glacier National Park reservation sitting by a stream ruminating he is not playing hooky from school. No, he is in love with a Blackfoot maiden and he is there by the stream romantically wailing his love to her through the fumes of his soul's desire.

She, of course, lives a few miles down the course of the river and he, hopes, is at this very moment seated somewhere on the bank thinking the same thoughts that absorb him. Love making is just as queer among the Indians as it is when it takes possession of the pale-face youth.

Kingston "Y's" Men Club Met

The newly organized Kingston Y's Men Club held their regular weekly meeting Wednesday evening at 6:15 at the Y. M. C. A. The meeting was very enjoyable and two new members signed the charter application.

During the dinner the members sang heartily their favorite songs accompanied on the piano by Kenneth Lowe.

After dinner President John H. Haulbeck introduced the speaker of the evening, Henry W. Sweeney, a certified public accountant and a graduate of the University of Wisconsin, who gave a splendid talk on the seven points of a successful career.

At the close of his address the members took advantage of Mr. Sweeney's invitation and asked him a number of questions which he answered in detail. Mr. Sweeney has a very pleasing personality and is a very enjoyable speaker and the members expressed the hope that he would be with them again when in Kingston.

The next meeting will be held Wednesday evening, March 17, when, being St. Patrick's night, an unusually attractive program is being arranged by the entertainment committee consisting of A. W. Buley, Homer Bruck and Kenneth Lowe.

The opportunity of becoming a charter member will be closed March 17 when the charter application will be forwarded to the National Headquarters.

ANCIENT TRADE SYMBOLS

Now Almost Forgotten

The glowing red and green bottles in the drug store window are a heritage from the medieval days of Lucca, Italy, when the drug store was a convenient place to pick up your favorite poison for some unattractive dinner guest. The well known red and white striped dagger pole is a reminiscence of the days when the barber's principal occupation was blood letting and the white stripes represented bandages. The three balls over a paragon's shop were the Imperial insignia of the Mongolian conqueror, Timur the Lame, who in 1380 was called the Scourge of Europe. Later they were adopted by the Medici family of Florence who, before they were dukes, princes of the church, and kings, were the medieval world's greatest wool merchants and money lenders. A huge wooden boot for a cobbler and a mammoth key for a locksmith were once familiar trade symbols for people who could not read. The classic wooden Indian, backed out of a broken mast by some retired sailor, commemorated the fact that Indians first taught Sir Walter Raleigh to smoke. But even tobacco sellers now find it easier to attract customers with more sophisticated window displays.—Everybody's Magazine.

IDEA OF SUBMARINE

Warfare Is Ancient

Experimentally, of course, the idea of the submarine goes back into a very remote past. Aristotle speaks of some kind of submarine vessel used in the siege of Tyre more than 2,000 years ago, and there are occasional mentions of the idea through history. In the sixteenth century one comes to the bishop of Uppsala's claim to have invented a boat for scuttling ships from below, and in 1626 Charles I gave a Dutch inventor an order for "boats to go under water," though they do not seem to have been used against the French. There were the rudimentary and unsuccessful "torpedoes" of Bushnell in the eighteenth century. But an ill fate pursued the early inventors. Fulton's submarine was rejected by France, England and America in turn, and he set himself to the more usual work of designing boat engines. Johnson's submersible which was to have rescued Napoleon from St. Helena came to nothing. Batter, who was taken up by the prince consort, drowned the crew of his submarine.—Manchester Guardian.

FISHER RADIO BEACON

The simplest and most constant sound in nature, the washing of the sea, serves as a radio beacon to warn whales, porpoises and many fishes to keep away from the shore and below the surface in rough weather, according to Dr. Austin I. Clark of the United States National Museum and formerly naturalist on the scientific ship Albatross.

Being high-pitched, the hissing sound of breaking waves has a marked directive quality—that is, it is easy to locate its point of origin. Being unceasing, it is distressing and repellent, and all the more sensitive sea creatures try to keep away from it. Whales, porpoises and dolphins are apparently guided by these repellent sounds, while on a windy night various other types of life which normally come up to the surface stay well beneath it.

HATE'S IN EFFECT

Hate, which clenches the fist of man, clenches equally the poison-tongue of the snake and the sac of coloring matter which darkens the water as the sac of muck darkens and poisons the air. We experience certain surface sensations in fury or terror which lead us to speak of "bristling with rage," or of the hair standing on end with terror.

Among the animals we may see the phenomenon taking place, and this rising of the hair is again only the result of our old friend muscular compression. How strange that action must be so many judges from the behavior of the "furious porpoise," for in the lifting of his quills we see that which we bear in our own veins.

Ancient Industry Is That of Bread Baking

Baking is probably the very oldest industry man engaged in. Wheat and barley, the oldest cereals known to have been found, together with the plowshare fashioned of wood and the stone hand mill consisting of a hollowed stone and a stone ball shaped crusher, among the remains left by prehistoric man. The oldest bread was made in the form of cakes or fritters simply prepared by mixing wheat or barley to a batter with water and milk, and baking these batter cakes of may be the size and form of our present day giffels, cakes on hot ashes or over hot but coals, or a hot stone, which represented the first bread pan and oven combined. Salt was probably the only other ingredient used besides the milk and water as there was no baking powder and yeast was not used until brewing had become known. The Egyptians had perfected both baking and brewing 1500 years before the beginning of the Christian era.

A Great Help

She had seen better times but was now keeping a boarding house.

A friend of her girlhood was spending the day, following her about from task to task. Finally, after surveying a mountain of soiled dishes, her friend spoke up:

"What with cooking, sweeping, cleaning and dishwashing, you have your hands full here. That daughter of yours seems to be husky. Doesn't she help you?"

"Oh, yes" was the response. "Anno helps. She makes the salads."

Drab Realism

The poet Michael Strange—Mrs. John Barrymore—defended at a Greenwich village tea idealistic as contrasted with realistic art.

"Let us have idealism and romance in our poetry and pictures," she said. "For nowhere else are these jolly things to be found. Life itself is horribly drab and uneventful."

The fair poetess smiled, then she added: "In life nothing ever comes off except buttons."

Many Colds and Sore Throats

No Cases of Epidemic Flu Such As Swept Over Kingston in 1918 Reported in City—Many Pupils Absent From Schools.

Kingston has been fortunate so far in escaping the ravages of the "flu" which is sweeping Syracuse and vicinity, and no cases of the epidemic "flu" of 1918 which swept the city have been reported in the city. There are very many cases of colds and sore throats in the city, however. In many of the city schools a number of pupils are confined to their homes by heavy colds and sore throats. In School No. 4 in Ponckhockie there are from 50 to 60 pupils away from school and confined to their homes by heavy colds and sore throats.

There are also thirty or more cases of measles in the city at the present time which are assisting in cutting down the attendance at school.

Grand Canyon Marvel of Peace and Beauty

We did not expect to love the canyon. Friends had presaged a deep, overwhelming round of earth's side-colored postals and railroad folders had prepared us for crudely hued longings on the precipitate walls. We expected heat, zebra stripes of vermillion, ochre and cobalt.

Instead we looked into the beautiful soft gulch of the canyon and our hearts were won. The crisp Arizona morning was cupped there when we first beheld it—on the deep sunken plateau with its dotted trees, on the pale pastels of the irregular far walls. Tinted peaks wore crowns of melted azure light and lower wreaths of faded geranium. The immense peace of the great jagged bowl played over us, an unplumbed, unfathomable mantle of serenity.

We saw colors—change, the pinks grow dull, the soft bands of azure break up, and etherize in the full noon, then brood together as the lights lengthened, and set in colder strands of putonium blue. On the slab side of the river walls we saw the sweetest pearls cling and the Gulf beam with frostier blues, until it lost them in dusk and night. Then on the brim in the high, clean wind we walked by that invisible cavern, saw the stars, large, fringed and low, and knew that vast as a familiar place where we could be at peace—Christian Science Monitor.

Swedish Church Treasures

Swedish churches hold a national fortune of about $27,000,000 in art treasures. A general art inventory of church property was taken as part of a movement to preserve the nation's cultural inheritances and the antiquities that are representative for each province. The average value of the contents of each church was estimated at $10,000.
